

Prop. 82 (Pre-school initiative)

Proposition 82, which lost, would have taxed Californians who earn yearly incomes of over $400,000 ($800,000 for couples) to fund a free public half-day preschool program, taught by accredited teachers.

How the poll was conducted: The Times Poll interviewed 2,833 voters as they exited 64 polling places statewide Tuesday. California has a modified open primary in which declined-to-state voters are permitted to vote in partisan primaries; they are included among the poll's Democratic and Republican primary voters. Precincts were chosen based on the pattern of turnout in past statewide primary elections. The survey was a self-administered, confidential questionnaire in English and Spanish. The margin of sampling error for the entire sample of primary voters statewide is plus or minus 2 percentage points. For some subgroups, the error margin may be somewhat higher. The survey was adjusted to account for absentee voters and those who declined to participate when approached using actual returns, demographic estimates collected by interviewers, and a pre-election survey of absentee voters. Interviews at the precinct level were conducted by Davis Research of Calabasas.
